

Disability Access

Harris & Harris are committed to providing services to all clients. If you have a disability that should not stand in the way of getting legal advice. Let us know the best way to help you.

- This website is designed so that you can change the text size using your Internet browser settings. You should also be able to use screen reading software.
- Documents in PDF format include a facility for your computer to convert them to speech (Tools>Read Out Loud).
- If you are coming to our offices please advise if you have any requirements in terms of wheelchair access and tell us if you need a ground floor interview room. If you cannot get to us, we will come to see you at your home, or a neutral venue.
- You are welcome to bring an interpreter or companion with you. Please let us know in advance so we can accommodate them.
- If you want us to arrange the interpreter please tell us the language required, and if you want to use a particular interpreter then please provide their contact details.
- We have professional obligations to send information to clients. Normally we are required to do that in writing. We want you to be able to understand everything we send you. If you need documents or e-mails sent in large type please tell us. If you need information provided on tape or in Braille we are happy to provide this to you.
- We have a portable induction loop system based at Wells, if your meeting is in Frome and you require the hearing loop please let us know and we will ensure it is made available. Alternatively we can also bring it to your home if necessary. If that would help you please let us know in advance.
